The Harlem Tree. beautiful Christman tree of the Nine Century School, laden with more than nth Century School, laden with more than hundred presents for the poor children, next setsy, was transferred from Y. M. C. A. Hall, Harlem, to Columbus Theatre Hall last hight. Is will be "The Evening World" tree on ristmas Day, Manager Harry Hammerstein, Columbus Theatre, took the tree in charge, id this moraling was placed in the position to a ready for the day of distribution. The tree is the gift of Miss Julia Blumenthal, is tharming young condustress of the kinder-barton and telect school at 5t West One Hundred and Thirty-third street and her pupils. Three cheers and a tiger were given for 'The vening World" last night by the crowd which llowed the tree in its transit from one hall the other.

blowed the tree in its transit from one assemble the other.

The spectcele, of a full-blown Christmas tree andling upright on a truck and driven through he streets underneath the dars of the electric lights was a novel thing to be sure to wandering selections on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth treet. In front of Columbus Theatre a highestracting crowd assembled and commented thilly the 'Old Santa Claus Essential' was being torne on the shoulders of brawny men into the rived from the same, and the little amount we hope will help to make some little ones happy. What Harry Wants for Christ

The on this day we want to see. That kind and nice old man. His name they say, is Santa Claus;

A nice big wagen and a sied,
A pair of new ice states
Just like the ones out in the shed!
A blankboard and some states. A toolchest and a printing press,

A watch and chain, a Chatterbox, A train that goes by steam.

That's not quite all. I know of lots
Of other things I've seen.

I think I'd also like a gun;

But anyway' he'll surely come
